(New York – October 3, 2013) – The Factory presents *A Devised Greek Tragedy Composed of Found Texts Detailing the Rise and Fall (and Rise and Fall Again) of Former New York Representative Anthony Weiner, or, The Weiner Monologues. Jonathan Harper Schlieman directs a cast of eight, including Devin James Heater and Liana Wendy Sarapas with P. Tyler Britt, David M DeLeon, Christopher Gizzi, Esther Ko, Sarah Smyth, and Jillian Stevens. Performances will be staged November 6-10 at Access Theater, 380 Broadway @ White Street, New York, NY 10013.

Anthony Weiner was a rising star in the Democratic Party until his online exploits ended his career. Then he ran for mayor, and it looked like he would be back on top until his junk was in the news again.

Using Greek tragedy as a model to tell the story of the ups and downs of Weiner's career, The Weiner Monologues explores the tension between personal and communal in the age of the Internet and the proliferation of social media. Through found text, live song, dance, video, and the use of smart phone technology as a narrative device, TWM goes beyond the headlines and double entendres to penetrate the issues of identity and meaning in our post-post-modern era.

Also, there are a lot of wiener jokes.

Seven performances will be held from November 6-10, 2013 on the following schedule: Wednesday-Sunday @ 8pm, and Saturday & Sunday at 2pm.

The Factory is dedicated to the cultivation and presentation of original works that emphasize creativity in both concept and execution. Rather than focusing on literal productions that are achieved through big budgets and effects, we are interested in immediate and present works as a part of our belief that necessity fosters ingenuity.
